Sills indicted

By BRENT MACEY
Billy Sills, Hancock County School Superintendent, was arrested and released on a $10,000 bond Thursday after being indicted by the Hancock County Grand Jury late Wednesday on charges that he accepted $7,500 as an incentive to hire a contractor needed to repair a damaged school building. Sills was one of three persons indicted by the Grand Jury. All persons indicted, including Sills, are scheduled to be arraigned April 15 in Circuit Court in the Hancock County Courthouse. Neither Sills nor his attorney, Richard Dymond of Gulfport, could be reached for comment. The indictment charges Sills with accepting $7,500 from Robert Rippetoe, president of Bay Contractors Inc., "as an inducement or incentive to award a contract to that firm to repair Gulfview School in Lakeshore. The indictment states Sills contracted Rippetoe's firm May 23 on a cost plus 20 basis. According to the indictment, the school board met on May 20, 1980 and gave Sills the authority to award the contract. Sills, according to the indictment, did knowingly, willfully, unlawfully and feloniously under color of his office accept and receive a gift of $7,500 from Rippetoe not authorized by law between May 23 and July 18.

Also late Wednesday the Grand Jury handed down an indictment charging Henry Paul Jordan of Bay St. Louis with murder in connection with the shooting death of Waveland contractor Robert Hargett. Jordan has been released on $10,000 bond for that charge and also a charge of aggravated assault in connection with a shooting of his wife the same evening.

Jordan was indicted for aggravated assault by the January term of the Hancock Grand Jury. In Circuit Court action this past week, Henry Otis, Hancock County Circuit Clerk, pleaded "not guilty" to charges of embezzlement.

Otis was indicted by the January term of the Grand Jury on charges he embezzled $49,019 in court fines and costs paid to the Circuit Clerk's office.

April 18, has been set as the date to hear motions on that case expected to be filed by Boyce Holeman, Otis's attorney.

Also in Circuit Court this week, James Billiot, accused of the triple sledge hammer murders of his mother, stepfather and stepsister last Thanksgiving, pleaded not guilty to three charges of capital murder.

Motions filed by Billiot's attorneys Yvonne Chapman Sills and Nicholas Haas are set to be heard April 15 in Circuit Court.

PROFUSION OF PINK—A 25-foot Japanese Magnolia (Magnolia-Soulangeana Watsonii) planted as small tree by the late Edward C. (Uncle Ed) Fayard some 35-years ago blooms at the old Chaze Nursery south of Kiln. The pink-blossomed trees originated in Japan as a hybrid of the Magnolia-Soulangeana Obovata and Magnolia-Soulangeana Sieboldii. The Watsonii variety was also developed in France by one of Napoleon's soldiers about 1820 where the hybrids were extensively cultivated from 1889 until 1900. About 1930 the pink variety began to appear in the United States developed by American horticulturists. Some of these hybrids have also originated in Italy and Holland. Fayard was caretaker at the former nursery until his death in 1955. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Trent Lott says:

Ammo plant is Hancock's brightest job prospect

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant at the National Space Technology Laboratories is the brightest employment prospect for Hancock County, said Rep. Trent Lott, the state's Fifth District U.S. congressman, after a Friday tour of the NSTL facility now in the final stages of construction.

A phased construction completion and startup of the $467 million plant is planned within the next two years where a newly-developed 155-millimeter anti-personnel and armor-piercing fragmentation howitzer shell will be manufactured exclusively for the U.S. Army.

Lott stated, "The plant will employ 500-1,500 people primarily in semi-skilled areas."

The congressman said the manufacturing facility will for the most part employ local people.

He requested that area universities and colleges are planning programs toward training residents for jobs at the plant.

Lott said all agencies at NSTL provide highly skilled and well-paid positions for area residents and contribute $10 million to the economy within a 10-mile radius of the facility.

In an address Friday afternoon at NSTL, Lott said the plant is the American Defense and Business Association's "Brightest Job Prospect" and the "Brightest Job Prospect" in the area.

The congressman noted that was during the Gulf War, in his address to the group consisting of business, government and military of officials working in various phases of national defense.

At the same time, Lott criticized President Ronald Reagan's administration for not formulating a military armament development plan.

"Having no overall military strategy is a ridiculous state of affairs. I do worry that we're not spending money for a clear-cut plan," he stated.

Lott reported in his conversations with veterans and students that a "me oriented" trend of the mid-1970's has now changed to a concern for improving U.S. military capabilities.

"We have drifted into a deep, dark hole with military defenses," he stated.

The congressman noted that many career military personnel have left the service due to defense cutbacks.

Lott said a "drumbeat" in the news media started early in 1981, and continues to convey the message that Reagan's defense spending policy is excessive and is causing high interest rates.

He feared the prevailing attitude by Democrats and the media might halt construction of the MX missile, B-1 Bomber and two aircraft carriers.

"We're going to have to stop this anti-military and anti-nuclear mood," Lott stated.

Regarding U.S. involvement in El Salvador, Lott said, "We have a clear vested interest in El Salvador."

The congressman said a Communist take-over in that country might lead to political turmoil in Mexico.

In reference to improving national civil defense preparedness and protection of Washington, D.C. officials in the event of a nuclear attack, Lott somberly said the Reagan administration is concentrating efforts at developing a "second-strike" capability and a "major civil defense plan."

Lott noted that several bomb shelters with steel doors are located in the nation's capital, but he has not "paid any attention to them in recent years."

"That's where the Soviet Union eats us (America) up," the congressman stated.

Regarding federal spending reductions, Lott supported reduction of civilian government employees over a period of several years.

Lott said the federal government is "overloaded" with people and Pentagon employs "too many civilians."

"We have got to get a handle on bureaucracy," he stated.

Wayne Ducomb Jr. is the author of the book "The Brightest Job Prospect" which is available at the NSTL. The book is a guide to the plant and the area. It is a must-read for anyone interested in the plant and the area. The book is available at the NSTL for $5.00. The book is a guide to the plant and the area. "It is important that the Circuit Court judge have wide and varied trial experience in all types of cases, both civil and criminal, as a single incorrect ruling by the judge during a trial may result in the necessity of a retrial at great expense of time and money to the taxpayers and the litigants involved. My qualifications and experience prove that I am ready for this great responsibility," the candidate stated.

Not too many years ago the Jaycees were very, very active in Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

They were involved in many civic ventures for the betterment of our community. Several years ago an effort was made to reorganize and failed to get off the ground.

New efforts are now underway to reorganize the Jaycees Chapter and we wish the organization success.

An organizational meeting will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Civil Defense Headquarters office, Old Spanish Trail.

We urge all persons interested to try and attend this important meeting. If you need further information, contact Doug Vandavare at 467-2133.

In a conversation, Ann Bailey, one of the chaperons of the Tiger Pride, passed on some interesting information about the band to us.

Ms. Bailey said she was talking to Congressman Trent Lott, and he told her that when the Bay St. Louis group performed on the steps of the nation's capitol, the largest crowd he ever witnessed gathered there to listen to the Tiger Pride.

The band from Bay High scored a first place in the Class A Division in field competition and was second overall in the Cherry Blossom Parade. Those are some mighty fine honors to bring home from the nation's capital.

Thursday night at the American Legion meeting we heard from Herbert Owens from Yazoo City who is seeking the post of Mississippi Commander of the Legion.

Legionnaire Owens has been involved in the Legion for over 33 years and has held numerous jobs locally as well as statewide.

We wish each and everyone of you a Happy Easter.

Governor's Scholars from across Mississippi will participate in the Governor's Colloquium on Science, Engineering and Technology to be held on April 15 in Jackson.

The colloquium, which is being sponsored by Winter and the Mississippi Academy of Sciences, is part of an effort by the governor to emphasize the importance of developing high caliber scientific and technological skills.

The theme of this year's colloquium is "What Should the Mississippi Worker Look Like in the 1990's and Beyond?"

During the day long event, speakers addressing this issue will be presented by Dr. Shelby Holmes, vice president for administration at the University of Southern Mississippi, Bill Howard, president of Howard Industries in Lafayette, and Wilbur Ball, director of the Department of Energy and Transportation for the State of Mississippi.

An evening address by Admiral Kinman Moore, commander for Naval Education and Naval Sea Systems will highlight the colloquium.

The colloquium is part of Governor Winter's continuing effort to promote and develop education in Mississippi. Educational advancement has been a primary objective of the governor throughout his term in office.

According to Winter, Mississippi's economic health depends on the quality of its educational system.

Commenting on the colloquium, Winter said, "The growing technological sophistication of the South's industrial sector makes it essential that we place educational resources and efforts toward ensuring that our children have the skills and knowledge to succeed in the future."

A new workshop to help Mississippi's private community college leaders in planning programs will be held April 22-23 at the University of Mississippi. Sponsored by the University of Mississippi.

Planning and Policy, Governor's Office of Federal/State Programs, the workshop will be conducted by the Community Rehabilitation Training Center.

"Community development and housing rehabilitation program directors in small cities face a unique mix of problems," said Dave Washington, DFP special projects officer.

The workshop will address issues such as the lack of competent contractors interested in rehabilitation, uncertainty of funding through the yearly cycle, very dilapidated housing stock, inadequate and inexperienced staff, cost inflation, inadequate loan limits for improvements necessary to meet standards and homeowner resistance to loan programs.

Other issues to be addressed are the time-consuming application process, lack of knowledge on contacting lenders, myriad of eligibility and loan processing problems, pressure to use minority firms, political and legal issues in local programs and inability to market the program to the target population.

The general rule, Washington said, "appears to be that the smaller the community, the more likely the occurrence of these problems." This workshop should be particularly beneficial to minority business owners, designers and administrators. Routine financial and programmatic issues of less than $500,000 population.

Bill has recent times the cost of a complete law school because of the National Direct Student Loan program.

Having said that, I think it's important to say this: Congress will not abolish those programs which serve a vital education need.

The federal government's commitment to post-secondary education aid began under the Eisenhower administration. The cost of the program expanded at a moderate pace for many years.

But in recent times the cost of a complete law school because of the National Direct Student Loan program.

By CONGRESSMAN TRENT LOTT
5th District, Mississippi

Recent letters and inquiries from people in the 5th District are seeking more information on the status of financial aid programs for college students.

For two years, I worked for a university in Mississippi with my sole job to act as an advisor on admissions and problems with student financial aid.

That experience makes me appreciate the need for students in many cases to get aid from universities, states, the federal government or local lending institutions to continue their education beyond high school.

As a matter of fact, I was able to complete law school because of the National Direct Student Loan program.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Tiger Pride accomplishments deserve more press recognition

The Editor:

Political corruption has news media priority over a bunch of good kids.

TV hasn't spared anything in getting our local corrupted politicians on screen. This paper as well as the Daily Herald has kept us abreast of the corruptions.

To my knowledge the Daily Herald, which is a part of Bay St. Louis, has made no mention of our Tiger Band accomplishments.

And Thursday, April 8 headlines this paper—"Supreme Court removes Anderson, Hancock District 3 judge;" also to finish the top half of that front page—"Ladner forgery charges dismissed—evidence ruled insufficient."

I feel sure that every man, woman, and school-age child is familiar with the Ladner case.

Guilt? I don't know, but it somehow makes me feel that it is very bad publicity for Hancock County and a blight on our children.

Believe it or not, the bottom half of this front page was divided in not two but four different subjects.

One of these was a picture of our returning honor-deserving band director and three local dignitaries.

With all due respect to them, why didn't our deserving band share this picture?

One person in a South Carolina restaurant did more to boost the moral of our kids than all the local news media combined.

Too bad our band aides didn't have more people like this body to help them accomplish their well done job.

In the same issue of this paper a whole page was used to show—St. Clare School Salutes Grandparents.

It was a gracious feeling to look upon these happy children and knowing that these grandparents felt 12 feet tall just as I did to know that my own granddaughter participated in the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington.

Again in this same paper we were given another full page treat—First Presbyterian kindergarten presents a Biblical play—for our enjoyment of more childhood accomplishments.

Judging from the performance of these two groups one can't help but believe that a united community and school effort was at work for one and the same goal—benefit of tomorrow's leaders.

Unfortunately, in comparison, neither our Tiger Pride Band members, nor the supporting public in general had the most of all-needed blessing and cooperation of our school superintendent Joe McCullough, so why should any of us blame the news media for its lack of publicity?

I just bet their individual support was 100 percent.

To all of us who shared in making this once in a lifetime dream come true we should take pride in our Tiger Pride Band.

I know they will always take pride.

Thanks,
Earl Lizana

City Street Department operating with one mower

By BRENT MACEY

One lawn mower is the only operating piece of equipment in the city's Street Department, Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett reported at a Tuesday Bay Council meeting.

Bennett presented a list of equipment in that department which is in need of repair.

Included is a 1969 grader reported to have transmission problems, a 1969 front-end loader which is spewing oil, a 1969 backhoe with bearing problems and possibly more, a 1975 Case bushog tractor with no clutch, a 1970 Ford tractor bushog also with no clutch and a 1974 Terrain King which needs to have a motor over-haul.

"These particular pieces of equipment are not being used at this particular time and they will stay parked until the council decides what to do," Bennett said.

The list and Bennett's statement followed comments by Councilman Gene Taylor at an earlier meeting this month.

While reviewing the claims at that meeting, Taylor objected to the amount of money being spent on repairs to city equipment.

The councilman went on record opposing any future payments for equipment repairs.

At the Tuesday meeting Bennett presented the council with the list. Included was a report on equipment in other city departments.

According to that report a 1971 Chevrolet three-quarter ton truck in the Utilities Department 'needs to be replaced because it is now beyond repair.'

"At the present time we have three men and one truck for the Sewer Department. There are no trucks that can be transferred from any department to the Utility Department," the report states.

Councilman Harry Farve Tuesday stated attempts should be made to repair the Street Department bushog since grass is beginning to grow rapidly due to spring weather.

However, the council took no action to repair any of the equipment.

In other business, the council approved a zero lot line recommendation by the City Board of Adjustments which will enable construction of the first set of townhouses in this city.

Ronnie Artigues and Norbert Kohnke had requested the approval of a zero lot line for a section of property 885 feet by 140 feet east of US-90 and north of Dunbar Avenue which borders on Reese Street—a platted street which has never been constructed in the city.

Artigues told the council he hopes to build five townhouses each with six units. The townhouses will face Reese Street.

"If we sell one we will start the next one," he stated.

Artigues noted the city currently has no ordinance on the books relating to townhouses.

Also at the meeting, the council approved issuing a work order to Southland Enterprises of Gulfport for construction of the gas line portion of the 1981 Small Cities project in Bay St. Louis. Work is expected to begin April 12.

—Heard a resolution from The Citizens Advisory Committee presented by Geraldine Lang which requested the city use an excess of some $200,000 remaining the Small City Project gas line budget for renovation of gas lines on Main Street. Ronnie Murray, Bay St. Louis Small City Project engineer, stated he feels the city has a 50-50 chance of having Housing and Urban Development approve using the excess amount of money for that purpose.

—Approved charging individual apartment dwellers a flat $7 flat sewerage fee sewerage after learning from Bennett that some entire apartment complexes are paying only $7.

—Approved readvertising bids for a $13,500 bank loan for the Bay St. Louis School Department when no bids from the first advertisement.

—Declared electrical work in the Bay Police Department and the gymnasium in the Valena C. Jones Center an emergency. A fire broke out in the Police Department two weeks ago due to an overload in the circuits, Bennett reported.

—Agreed to pay a maximum of $5,000 to the Planning and Zoning Commission in order to update a city zoning map.

NSTL reports Space Shuttle engine failure

A team of scientists head by George McDonough, director of Marshall Space Flight Centers' System Dynamics Laboratory, arrived at the National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County Friday to determine what caused a space shuttle engine to fail during a test Wednesday evening.

Mac Herring, manager of Public Relations at NSTL, said a space shuttle engine, being tested at NSTL Wednesday at 10 p.m. 'was extensively damaged' and some damage was also reported to the test stand.

"Certification engine 2013 failed 392 seconds into a planned 500 second run on test stand A-1," Herring reported.

"The cause of the test failure has not been determined," he said.

"The engine was being operated at 109 percent of its rated power level in a program to certify these space shuttle engines for eventual use at high power levels," Herring said.

He noted current shuttle engines are certified to operate at 100 percent power level.

The new type of engine, whose prototype is currently being tested at NSTL, will eventually be used on future space shuttle missions.

Herring noted the additional power will give future shuttles greater thrust and will enable them to carry more payload into outer space.

Cheerleader tryouts slated at The River

Pearl River College football cheerleader tryouts will be held Tuesday, April 20 at 3:30 p.m. in the PRC Coliseum.

According to sponsor Ann Morris, male and female contestants will vie for three places. Five cheerleaders will return from last fall's unit.

Candidates will be judged according to rhythm, appearance, enthusiasm, personality, voice and learning ability. The returning sophomore cheerleaders will be on hand to teach a cheer and chant. This will be used to demonstrate the candidates sense of rhythm and ability to learn.

Each candidate will be required to have a cheer prepared to perform before the judges. Morris said past cheerleading experience is helpful but not essential.

Editor joins power company directors

Walter H. Hurt III, vice-president and general manager of News Publishing Company and editor of The Wayne County News of Waynesboro, has been elected a director of the Mississippi Power Company.

"We are very fortunate to have Mr. Hurt as a member of the company's board of directors. With his experience in the publishing industry and as a working journalist and editor, Mr. Hurt's guidance will be most welcome in the years ahead, as Mississippi Power Company strives to provide its customers with reliable electric power at the lowest cost possible," said Allan R. Barton, power company president.

A native of Waynesboro, Hurt earned a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Mississippi and a master's degree in journalism from the University of Iowa. He has attended the University of Wisconsin where he worked toward a doctorate in mass communications.

Hurt is well known in Mississippi journalism, being a third generation editor of the award-winning weekly publication, The Wayne County News, founded in 1891. He has served as president of the Mississippi Press Association and has been a member of that organization's Board of Governors.

He previously held editorial positions with The Iowa Publisher and The Wisconsin State Journal and for a number of years was assistant professor of journalism and publisher of The Daily Mississippian, a newspaper serving the University of Mississippi.

Hurt has served as president and director of the Waynesboro Rotary Club and as a director of the Wayne County Chamber of Commerce and the Mississippians for Educational Television. He is married to a former Jewel Martin of Stonewall, and they have one son, Andre, a journalism student at the University of Mississippi.

Mississippi Power Company, a member of the Southern electric system, provides electric power to more than 160,721 customers in 23 southeast Mississippi counties.

ASCS News

"All Risk Crop Insurance protection in Hancock County has been expanded for 1982 by the addition of soybean coverage," according to Everett LeJeune, field operations director for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

"Closing date for sales of soybean insurance will be April 15," LeJeune added. Planted acres of all insured spring crops must be reported to agents by July 10.

"Accurate, timely reporting of planted acres will assure fast, reliable service throughout the season."

"For details on the new soybean protection, producers should contact their local agents," LeJeune added.

"The Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC) and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), both agencies of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, are providing cooperative assistance to farm producers."

"ASCS has announced an April 15 deadline for completion of the 1982 acreage reduction program for cotton, rice, grain, and wheat."

"Producers who have already reported planted acreage for 1982 Crop Insurance can enter their acreage reduction by April 15."

"According to the terms of the 1982 Crop Insurance Act, producers who have not reported their planted acreage by April 15 will be subject to a 10 percent penalty in their 1982 Crop Insurance premium."

The request for coverage should be made through the local agent or service office before the sales closing date for that crop. The sales closing date for soybeans, cotton, rice, and grain sorghum is April 15.

In addition, FCIC has initiated an Individual Yield Coverage (IYC) program, which ultimately will permit policyholders to purchase insurance coverage based solely on their production records. An IYC participant must have verifiable acreage and yield records for a crop.

The three most recent consecutive years' production records will be used for up to 10 years, available beginning January 1, 1983.

Those producers who were insured on a single planted acreage basis in 1981, but canceled their insurance may re-apply for coverage and maintain any premium discount they may have earned for good performance in 1981.

PRC communications majors outline Easter Week readings

By ROCKY ANDRY and REV. SELBY ALSWORTH

While celebrating the Easter Season, and more specifically the glorious Resurrection of Our Lord, refreshing memories of the many events that lead up to this moment in the life of Our Lord would be helpful.

In the scriptures the Gospel writers tell both the glory and the tragedy that transpired. The following scriptures were taken from the Gospel of Mark.

Although the Passion Week or the Holy Week has come to an end, reading each one of the suggested passages may lead to a sharing in the excitement of this glorious time.

Alone and crumbling

Q. I've been having a lot of problems, and I've even considered killing myself rather than go on being hurt anymore. I was 13 when I met my ex-husband and divorced at 21.

I have spent the past 7 years with a man who is now tired of me being so insecure. I can't explain why I'm insecure. I own my own home, have raised my beautiful 8-year-old daughter and I'm not bad looking.

I gave up a good job to work for my boyfriend, and now that we have broken up I have been fired. My world seems to be crumbling around me. I have never been alone or dated, and I don't know where to go to meet nice men who will be interested in me as a person and not how good I am in bed. Please help me.

A. Why shouldn't your "world be crumbling around" you? Your description of yourself and your life indicates you have been building on a very poor foundation. No wonder you are insecure. Better pull yourself together. And know that you can if you really will to do so.

Find a church or synagogue in your community and enter into activities there to meet the right kind of people with purpose and spiritual appreciation in their lives.

Perhaps you will find help in our booklet Try Faith and Watch What Happens which is on its way to you. Any reader wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Disapproving in-laws
Q. I am happily married to the youngest son of a large family. His parents are extremely religious. Yet the father is critical, intimidating and abusive, both of his wife and the children when they were growing up.

Now his parents are intolerant of our beliefs and practices which do not conform to their standards. We and our children are being ostracized and deliberately hurt. Can God really approve of their behavior just because they go to church every day and plan to leave their worldly possessions to the church?

A. Going to church is good. But sadly, churchgoers' actions sometimes do not coincide. Christianity is not designed to be a formal demonstration but rather to reveal the spirit of Jesus Christ in one's actions.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." —John 10:10

By Shawn Murphy

MINISTER, BAY ST. LOUIS CHURCH OF CHRIST

I would like to share with you a writing by Thomas Traherne which sheds some light on the abundant life.

To what end do men gather riches, but to multiply more? Do they not like Pyrrhus, the King of Epirus, add house to house and land to lands, that they may get it all?

A story is told of the prince that having conceived a purpose to invade Italy he sent for Cineas, a philosopher and the king's friend.

Cineas asked Pyrrhus to what purpose would he invade Italy?

He said, "To conquer it." "And what will you do when you have conquered it?" "Go into France," said the king, "and conquer that."

"And what will you do when you have conquered France?" "Conquer Germany," said the philosopher.

"Conquer Spain," "I perceive," said Cineas, "you mean to conquer all the world. What will you do when you have conquered all?"

"Why then," said the king, "we will return and enjoy ourselves in quiet in our own land."

"So you may now," said the philosopher, "without all this ado."

The story, although an ancient one, has application to us today as fresh as tomorrow morning's newspaper. We might do well to ask ourselves, "To what end do we gather riches?" It is so easy to get caught up in the American dream. Radio, television and newspaper all seek to make us salivate as we endure their never-ending commercials and sales.

Credit cards are freely given out, with no limit as to how many you may own. And after all, isn't it a lot easier to buy something, when rather than exchange money for it, you can simply give someone your autograph! And of course this leads to working late and also weekends in order to move up the corporate ladder so we can have more money and thus more things.

And why not have both spouses work? Why everyone knows that two incomes are better than one! And little Johnny and baby Jenny can spend each day at the daycare, and etc.

"What then will you do when you have gained it all?" "Why then," said the husband, "we will return and enjoy ourselves in the quiet of our own home." "So you may now," said the Lord, "without all this ado."

Stop and take inventory of your family life. Sometimes the good life is right under our noses, and we are too busy looking for it elsewhere to realize that it is at our fingertips.

"And Jesus said...Take heed, and beware of covetousness; for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." (Lk. 12:15).

The "abundant life" doesn't mean an abundance of possessions but rather a right relationship with your family and friends and yourself with

God. And Jesus Christ will show you the way to the abundant life. Just read his book it has been the most widely read and best-selling book for nearly 2,000 years!

SOME KIND OF HERO

It's basically unfair to compare a movie to its origin—i.e. the novel. Alas, all is not fair in love, war or cinema.

During the early 70s, James Kirkwood wrote a devastating piece of fiction entitled "Some Kind of Hero." In his novel, Kirkwood took his protagonist, Eddie Kellar, through unmitigated hell. Kellar stumbled through the Vietnam war as a P.O.W., returned home to a wife who no longer loved him and then was denied back-pay by the Army because he had signed a bogus confession during his six year internment.

What follows this "P.S.—your cat is dead" introduction is how Kellar copes with his predicament. Often funny, sometimes harrowing and always entertaining, Kirkwood fashioned a fast-paced novel with genuine feeling. The screen version of Some Kind of Hero opened last week and although it doesn't exhibit the scope of Kirkwood's novel, it is still a very fine motion picture indeed.

Casting Richard Pryor as Eddie Kellar was the coup of the movie. Pryor, keeps his exaggerated mannerisms to a minimum. But occasionally one of those patented Pryor routines breaks the pathos that runs throughout this movie.

Pryor shows more dramatic ability here than he has ever shown before, with the exception of the highly underrated, Blue Collar. He sports vulnerability and yet a street-smart fierceness that climaxes in an intense scene involving two, slimy underworld figures.

When he asks if he'll get out of the hotel alive, one of the gangsters sneers and says, "What do you think?"

What follows is probably one of the most realistic fight sequences ever filmed. It has such depth and delivers such pain that you'll actually cringe from the blows that are thrown.

Supporting Pryor is an excellent cast including Margot Kidder (Superman I and II), who plays a prostitute. The scenes between her and Pryor make Guess Who's Coming to Dinner look like a Bugs Bunny Cartoon.

Ray Sharkey (The Idol Maker) gives an abbreviated, hard-edged performance as Vinnie, Pryor's bunkmate in Vietnam. There is also good strong support from Ronnie Cox (Deliverance) as Pryor's commanding officer.

The two best novels translated into contemporary cinema have been Dickey's Deliverance and Puzo's The Godfather. The film version of Deliverance didn't leave out a single scene, and writer Dickey got so involved in the project that he wound up playing a sheriff at the end of the film. And Francis Coppola took The Godfather and wound up winning two best picture awards—for the original and the sequel.

The secret behind getting the quality of a book on the screen is the quality of the original writer involved in the project. In Some Kind of Hero, Kirkwood served as co-screenwriter and executive producer and the integrity of his novel is well preserved. And although Pressman's pacing leaves much to be desired, Some Kind of Hero still sparkles.

Finally, Pryor has shown he can act with the best of Hollywood's leading actors. It's also refreshing to see him doing such quality work so soon after a nearly fatal accident. Some Kind of Hero contains explicit language and the love scenes between Pryor and Kidder might be objectionable to some. But all in all, Some Kind of Hero is a drama-comedy that delivers on many different levels.

TREE PLANTING RECORD

More acres were reforested this year than ever before in the State's history, according to statistics released this week by the Mississippi Forestry Commission.

More than 191,000 acres were either planted to seedlings or direct seeded during the December-March tree planting season. That total surpasses the previous record high year of 1960 when 171,000 trees were planted, mostly under the old Federal Soil Bank program.

State Forester Dick Allen was understandably pleased with the new State tree planting record.

"I think it reflects the surging interest in tree growing and general support for forestry that is sweeping Mississippi these days. The message is finally getting through to landowners that there is an economic bonanza ahead for those who get their timberlands into full productivity now," said the State Forester.

Allen said despite the current flurry of reforestation activity there is an urgency to do even more of it each year if future demands on our forests are to be met.

"We are still playing catch-up as far as regeneration of our cutover and underproductive timberland is concerned. There is a tremendous backlog—several million acres—of privately owned timberland that has been harvested in years past with no follow-up program to assure that it grows back in useful species of trees," he declared.

Allen praised the hard work of Forestry Commission employees and the outstanding support the Agency has been receiving for its program from other conservation agencies and organizations, the State Legislature, Governor William Winter and the general public.

"This new high in reforestation activity is the result of a tremendous outpouring of support from all these areas," said Allen, "and Mississippians are going to really benefit in the years ahead as these trees grow and are finally harvested."

TREE PLANTING WEEK

A final tabulation of statewide reports on Tree Planting Week-1982 activities shows one of the best records of participation in the eight years that the annual "celebration of trees" event has been held.

Statewide Tree Planting Week Chairman James Martin of Brandon hailed the fact that 80 of the State's 82 counties conducted special free planting activities during the second week in February this year. "It's really good to see this interest in trees and tree planting continue to build each year," he said.

Martin said 688,000 seedlings were given away during the observance week to school children and interested homeowners. Many of the tiny seedlings were donated by forest industries or purchased and donated by local businessmen and local conservation districts.

Reports from the individual Soil and Water Conservation Districts, primary local sponsors of the events, showed 80,000 children from 484 schools participated as well as thousands of adults from the various communities.

DeSoto County led all others in total seedlings given away 58,100, with Hinds County running a close second with 50,000.

Some 50 schools in Harrison and 45 in Hinds held special tree planting programs to lead in that category.

An estimated 18,000 students took part in Tree Planting Week observances in Harrison County. DeSoto County, with 5,000 students participating, and Rankin with 4,500 ranked second and third respectively.

Tree Planting Week Chairman Martin also praised the cooperation and hard work of hundreds of Forestry Commission and Soil Conservation Service employees, Scouts, Garden Clubs, U.S. Forest Service personnel, forest industries and local businessmen who again helped the Soil Conservation Districts conduct the event.

LEAR PROFILE

In programs like "All in the Family," "The Jeffersons," "Maude," and "One Day at a Time," writer-producer Norman Lear has demonstrated that millions of Americans will laugh about provocative and sensitive subjects which have been strenuously avoided on television. "The World of Norman Lear," a two-part presentation of the Creativity Museum series over PBS, provides an absorbing look into Lear's creative work style and personality. The program will air live on April 11 and 12 at 7 p.m.

Story Hour titles listed

Story Hour for pre-schoolers is presented every Thursday at 10:30 a.m. at the Bay St. Louis Library.

Programs are designed for four to six-year-olds and those three-year-olds accustomed to group settings.

This week's program begins with the new book by Marjorie and Mitchell Sharmat, 'I Am Not A Pest.'

Arms are swinging, physical activity, will be taught to the children between stories.

'It's Not Fair' by Robyn Supraner will be the second story read.

The program will conclude with the motion picture film 'Me and the Monster.'

Becky Mitohum is the Hancock Library System's children's librarian.

CAR MAINTENANCE—Red Seal covers the floor pan of car maintenance and repairs a new television set. 'The Last Chance Garage,' at 4 p.m., Saturdays, beginning April 17, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Children who have frequent ear infections and middle ear fluid may suffer from conductive hearing loss. It is the most common hearing disability among infants and young children affecting more than half of all children at least once by the age of three. Hearing and speech evaluations are an important part of Early Seal work. For more information about conductive hearing loss, contact your local Early Seal Society, and this year give generously to the Early Seal Campaign.
